Based in Toronto, Mathur will lead the region's focus on driving growth in Savvis colocation, managed hosting and cloud services across Canada.

"As demand for IT services escalates in Canada, I'm extremely enthusiastic about the opportunity at Savvis," Mathur said. "I look forward to working with the team to accelerate adoption of the company's world-class colocation, cloud and managed hosting solutions."

Most recently, Mathur served as an executive consultant and adviser, focusing on revenue growth, business planning, investment preparation and global expansion for early-stage software and IT service companies. Prior to that, he led sales, engineering and marketing as vice president of sales for Cisco's Canadian operations. He has also held various global leadership roles with Microsoft.

"We are delighted to have Ash leading our team in Canada," said James Parker, senior vice president, global sales and marketing. "Ash brings a strong, broad background that will serve the region well in building trusted relationships and leading strategic growth through comprehensive, go-to-market initiatives."
